1. Introduction

The Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 brought into effect a new way of developing planning policy. The outcome of that process will be a series of themed documents known as Local Development Documents (LDD) that can be updated regularly to reflect changes in local circumstances, national and regional planning policy. The collective name for these documents is the Local Development Framework (LDF).

To ensure the new planning policies are effective the evidence used to devise policy needs to be robust, credible and up-to-date. At the beginning of Ribble Valley's evidence gathering process in 2005 it was discovered that most data sources at the Council's disposal was either out-of-date, not available or there were reliability issues. The decision was made to go back to basics and carry out a comprehensive settlement audit that would give a good baseline for data collection and a date from which to carry out comparisons in the future.

Now that most of the evidence base has been gathered, the next step in devising policies can be started to help create sustainable communities. Policies can be developed using facts rather than anecdotal evidence that help to resolve issues identified in the public consultation process of each Local Development Document.

It should be noted that there are some gaps in the evidence base at this stage that only comprehensive survey work can fill. Due to a combination of resource and timing issues the necessary survey work cannot be undertaken in time for the completion of this settlement audit or to be incorporated in the Regulation 25 consultation process. Paragraph 1.7 of "Using Evidence in Spatial Planning" CLG March 2007, recognises new issues and evidence will be identified and addressed in more detail as DPD's take shape. Much of the survey work is to be undertaken at the Regional and County level and through joint working with adjacent local authorities. Once all areas of work have been completed the evidence base will be updated to incorporate survey findings. These gaps in the evidence base are identified within Tables 1 and 2 and section 6 of this report, the 2005 and 2006 LDF Annual Monitoring Reports, and the generic Sustainability Appraisal Scoping Report for each Local Development Framework.

2. Purpose of the Settlement Audit

To gather a comprehensive evidence base on each settlement to identify the following:

1. The local characteristics of each settlement or groups of settlements.
2. Levels of service provision.
3. Which settlements outside of the Market Towns act as local service centres for nearby settlements.
4. The socio-economic characteristics of each settlement.
5. The socio-demographic characteristics of each settlement.

6. Which settlements can benefit from growth – employment, housing, retail and other community facilities?
7. Which settlements are in decline?
8. Levels of social, affordable, and low-cost housing need and supply.
9. Levels of open market housing need and supply.
10. Levels of employment need and supply.
11. Assess suitability and relevance of the current settlement boundaries.

The settlement audit will also provide the basis for carrying out the following studies:

1. Strategic Housing Market Assessment.
2. Housing Land Availability Assessment.
3. Employment Land Availability Assessment.

Note: This report does not provide analysis of the settlement audit this has been carried out in the Housing Market Assessment, Housing Land Availability and Employment Land Availability studies.

3. Evidence Base Information Requirements

In an attempt to identify which data is required to create a robust, credible and up-to-date evidence base and the level of detail needed, three areas of the planning process were looked at:

1. Evidence used in devising planning policy
2. Evidence used in sustainability appraisals
3. Evidence used during preparation of the LDF Annual Monitoring Report

National guidance is available for all three areas of the planning process and from this a list of factors that need to be taken into consideration was created:

Planning Process

- a) Strategic Housing Market Assessments: Practice Guidance (Communities and Local Government March 2007)
- b) Housing Land Availability Assessments: Identifying Appropriate land for Housing Development (ODPM December 2005)
- c) Employment Land Reviews: Guidance Note (ODPM December 2004)
- d) Creating Local Development Frameworks: A Companion Guide to PPS12 (ODPM November 2004)
- e) Using Evidence in Spatial Planning (CLG March 2007)

Sustainability Appraisals

- a) Sustainability Appraisal of Regional Spatial Strategies and Local Development Documents (ODPM November 2005)

LDF Annual Monitoring Report

- a) Local Development Framework Monitoring: a Good Practice Guide (ODPM March 2005)

The factors were split into "Essential" and "Desirable" data and are listed in Tables 1 and 2 below with the sources of information used:

¹ Mapzone is a map based website showing the location of different types of data (roads, schools, environmental classifications etc) devised and maintained by Lancashire County Council.

² The on-foot survey was carried out to gather data that could not be gained from secondary information sources.

³ Ribbles Valley Borough Council's Development Control section uses a database system called MVM to record data from planning applications.

Tourist facilities (TIC's; Hotels; Holiday Lets; Museums etc)	Ribble Valley Borough Council's Tourism Officer / On-foot survey
Retail: 1. Size 2. Type according to Use Class Order 3. Vacant units	On-foot survey / Valuation Office website
Conservation Areas and Listed Buildings	Ribble Valley Borough Council's Conservation Officer / Local Plan Proposals Map
Areas with a nature conservation classification within an existing settlement boundary	Ribble Valley Borough Councils Geographical Information System (GGP) / Natural England's Magic website

Data identified as essential are those factors that are taken into account during the planning process i.e. used in the determination of planning applications. These are areas where local indicators will be identified and regularly assessed via the LDF Annual Monitoring Report (AMR). The AMR is a data collection and analysis document that assesses the effectiveness of planning policies. It identifies whole or parts of existing policies requiring change that either responds to changing local circumstances or reflect a change in national or regional planning guidance.

⁴ Housing Completions are gathered from Ribble Valley Borough Council's Development Control records and produced in the Housing Land Available Schedule

Tourist visitor numbers

Data identified as desirable are those factors that are ancillary to the planning process but provide useful contextual data that identifies different characteristics between each settlement or groups of settlements.

4. Features Requiring Survey Work

Whilst identifying information sources for each of the essential and desirable data, there was some data that could not be obtained through secondary sources. On-foot surveys were required to collect this data and these are listed below:

1. Retail
 - a. Existing units and location
 - b. Vacant units and location
2. Housing
 - a. Identification of new potential sites
 - b. Potential site constraints
3. Business
 - a. Existing business uses and location
 - b. Identification of new potential sites
 - c. Potential site constraints
 - d. Vacant units and location
4. Location of Tourist Facilities and visitor numbers
5. Recreational Open Space – formal, informal, playspace, public and private
6. Identification of other community services and facilities (schools, halls, post boxes, community notice boards, telephone boxes etc)

Appendix 1 shows the On-Foot Survey Templates that were used to record data; an explanation of the content is given in section 5 of this report.

5. Settlement Audit Summary

The essential and desirable data has been collated by settlement with maps showing areas of search where no settlement boundary exists. Each settlement has data sheets showing the on-foot survey results and all data for both essential and desirable factors. From this raw data a summary has been devised for each Settlement, Ward, Key Service Area (Market Town) and the Borough shown in Appendix 3. The summary has been divided into four key themes which correspond to the key issues that were put forward during the Ribble Valley Strategic Partnership Open Day in October 2006. Each theme summarises the essential data shown in table 1 of this report.

Theme 1: Community Structure

- a) Population – three age bands have been aggregated 0-24 years; 25-64 years; and 65 plus. The age bands give a good indication of the age distribution in each settlement. More age bands are displayed in the individual settlement data files to give a better indication of age distribution where required. The data is taken from the 2001 Census at Output Area level, the lowest geographical area census data is collected at. For most rural settlements Output Areas roughly correspond to the settlement areas. There are some settlements that cover two or more Output Areas, and in some cases there are two or more settlements (hamlets) contained in one Output Area. Settlements and their corresponding Output Areas and Wards are shown in Appendix 2.
- b) Households – this shows the total number of households but not household formation of each settlement. The data is taken from the 2001 Census at Output Area level, the lowest geographical area census data is collected at. As the census data is now 7 years out of date it was felt that the Housing Needs Survey, Housing Strategy information and data from Estate Agents would be more useful in forecasting likely future household formation rates in each settlement, this will be incorporated into the Housing Market Assessment as the data is not yet available.
- c) Average Household Income – the data is derived from Axiom income data for 2006 at Census Output Area. The raw data shows the settlement average against the Ribble Valley and Great Britain average, and the change between 2005 and 2006.
- d) Economically Active – this figure is taken from the 2001 Census at Output Area level and shows the percentage of all those of working age who are economically active i.e. are able to work.
- e) Commuting – this figure is derived from the 2001 Census Travel to Work data at Ward level. It shows the percentage of the working population who travel outside of the Borough to their place of work.
- f) Car Ownership – this figure is derived from the 2001 Census at Output Area level, and shows the percentage of the driving age population who own a car.
- g) Rail Travel – this states whether there is a railway station within the settlement and the distance to the nearest station where one is not present. In some cases the nearest station may be outside of the Borough.
- h) Bus Service - this states whether there is a bus service to and from the settlement and the distance to the nearest bus stop where one is not present.

Theme 2: Community Facilities

The summary shows whether a key community facility is present within the settlement and how many, and the distance to the nearest where that facility is not present. In some cases the nearest facility may be outside of the Borough. The key facilities have been identified from ODPM's "Sustainable Communities: Building for the Future" (February 2003) and the Office of National Statistics data:

- GP Surgery
- Chemist
- Access to Broadband
- Post Office
- General Convenience Store
- Nursery School
- Primary School
- Secondary School
- Further or Higher Education
- Community Hall
- Library

Theme 3: Natural and Built Environment

This section summarises the number of environmental designations and the amount of open space by category falling within each settlement. It does not include designations or open space outside of the settlements. A wider environmental audit will be undertaken as part of the sustainability appraisal process:

- Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty – National Designation
- Biological Heritage Site – Local Designation
- Site of Special Scientific Interest – National Designation
- Conservation Area – where Conservation Areas are proposed these are indicated
- Listed Buildings
- Open Space:
 - Formal – areas where sports can be played
 - Informal – maintained open areas used for informal activities such as walking
 - Children's Play Areas

The amount of open space per head of population has been calculated. The calculations are derived from the amount of open space identified in the on-foot survey and do not include open countryside areas with public footpath networks.

Theme 4: Housing and Employment

- a) House Types – the data is taken from the 2001 Census at Output Area level. It shows the number of detached, semi-detached and terraced properties in each settlement.
- b) House Tenures - the data is taken from the 2001 Census at Output Area level. It shows the number of properties that are owner-occupied, rented (private, council, housing association), and other tenures (tied-cottages etc).
- c) Average House Prices – the data is taken from the Land Registry at partial post-code level for example BB7 2. Although, it is recognised that this level of data is not ideal for settlement level it is reliable at Ward level and gives a good indication of how house prices are changing over a given period in each of those post-code sectors.
- d) Retail – this summarises the data detailed in the on-foot survey. It shows the number of retail units in each settlement that correspond to Class A of the Town and Country Planning Use Classes Order:
 - Shops is Use Class A1
 - Financial is Use Class A2
 - Restaurants/Cafes is Use Class A3
 - Public House is Use Class A4
 - Hot Food Take-away is Use Class A5

For the purpose of the summary retail does not include Sui Generis or D1 Health Practices. Although these two uses were found primarily in shopping frontages, it was thought that it would be confusing as they are not strictly retail but specific service providers. These two use classes will be considered in a separate study looking at all uses (business and retail) in the primary and secondary shopping areas as part of the wider evidence base.

- e) Businesses - this summarises the data detailed in the on-foot survey. It shows the number of businesses in each settlement that corresponds to Class B of the Town and Country Planning Use Classes Order:
 - Offices and Light Industrial is Use Class B1
 - General Industry is Use Class B2
 - Storage and Distribution is Use Class B2
- f) Vacant Business Sites and Premises: this summarises the data detailed in the on-foot survey. It shows the number of vacant employment units and sites within in each settlement.
- g) Empty Homes: This data is taken from Ribble Valley Borough Council's Empty Property Register. It shows the number of empty homes the Council has given priority to in an attempt to bring them back into residential use.

Note: More detailed data is held in the Development Services Department in the Council Offices. Please note that existing and vacant retail and business units recorded were correct at the time of survey. These units may have changed since that time.

6. Issues arising from the audit

As a consequence of carrying out the settlement audit a number of issues have arisen that need to be addressed during the course of Development Plan Document (DPD) preparation. These issues along with any identified through the public consultation process will form the basis of the Issues and Options stage of each DPD, this process is explained in section 7 of this report.

Issue 1: Should the existing settlement boundaries be changed?

The current settlement boundaries are set out in the Adopted Local Plan 1998. The settlement audit identified a number of areas where changes in land-use has meant the existing boundary is no longer valid and needs to be revisited. There are a number of factors associated with this issue:

- a) Is there still a need for defining settlement boundaries? What purpose do they serve?
- b) Is it possible to identify those settlements from the audit where there is growth potential and to redraw the boundary to accommodate new growth?
- c) Are there settlements that have no growth potential but would benefit from the boundary being redrawn to take into account land-use changes that have occurred since Local Plan adoption?
- d) Are the criteria used in the Local Plan for defining settlement boundaries still valid or would defining development limits be more applicable?

The criteria used for identifying settlement boundaries and development limits are explained below.

"Settlement boundary definition and criteria

- The approach to defining settlement boundaries has been used in this Local Plan and its predecessor. The principles used were examined at local plan inquiries and are as follows:
 - The settlement boundary should only enclose the main settlement area; i.e. the area of close knit physical character.
 - Areas of sporadic, dispersed or ribbon development should normally be excluded from the settlement boundary area.
 - Tree belts, woodland areas, hedges and other natural features, which help to soften, screen existing development and form a boundary to the settlement, are important. These features should be excluded from the settlement or protected in some other way.
 - Highly visible areas such as exposed ridges, landforms or open slopes on the edge of settlements should normally be excluded from settlement boundary areas.
 - Open undeveloped parcels of land on the edges of settlements should normally be excluded from defined settlement areas.
 - Important open spaces within settlements should be safeguarded.

- Clearly identifiable features should be used in drawing the boundary, wherever possible.
- The wider setting and important views both into and out of the settlement should where appropriate also be taken into account.

This approach excludes from the boundaries areas of scattered development and areas of loose-knit development on the edge of settlements that provide the transition from the main settlement area to the open countryside. These areas are an essential part of the character of the District's rural areas; the consolidation of these areas with infill development would be detrimental to the character of these rural areas." (Extract from the Ribble Valley Adopted Local Plan 1998)

Development Limits Definition

Development limits identify the area within which development proposals would be acceptable, subject to complying with other policies contained in the Development Plan. They seek to prevent development from gradually extending into the surrounding countryside.

Issue 2: What makes a settlement sustainable?

There are a number of questions that need to be asked to address this issue. It is expected that a comprehensive analysis of the settlement audit will answer most of the questions listed below:

1. What are the existing constraints within the settlement? Conservation Area, Flood Risk, Other protection areas etc.
2. If potential sites have been identified for development what known constraints are there that may prevent development? Physical and financial constraints.
3. If a site is identified for development but the constraints cannot be overcome what other use could the site be best used for that makes it usable and well integrated into the settlement?
4. What is missing from the settlement that would make it more sustainable? Housing, employment, community facilities, services etc
5. What is present in the settlement that would cause deterioration of the settlement if it closed? Post Office, shop, community facility etc

Issue 3: How can the supply and demand for all types of housing be accommodated throughout the Borough?

1. Should an allocation be made for the number of houses to be developed in each Settlement or Ward? If so should a quota be made for affordable and open market housing?
2. How many new dwellings could theoretically come from sub-division, change of use, conversion and re-use of empty homes? How would this affect the housing supply figures?

3. How can a phasing policy be applied to the settlement to ensure there is always a steady supply (5 yr and 10 yr)? Would there need to be a separate policy for each settlement or would a borough-wide one work?
4. Can existing employment allocations or vacant sites be better used for housing and vice versa?
5. Is there a need for rural exception site allocations for affordable housing?
6. Can a minimum density be applied to each settlement to encourage better use of land?

The questions posed above will be answered during the course of the Housing Market Assessment and Housing Land Availability Study, which are currently underway.

Issue 4: How can the supply and demand for all types of business be accommodated throughout the Borough?

1. What is the employment demand and supply for each settlement and for what category of businesses? Is there a need for site allocations?
2. Do policies need to be put in place to protect existing businesses? Can these types of policies work in reality?
3. What is the level of vacant, derelict and under-used sites?
4. What is the level of demand for home-working and live-work uses?

The questions posed above will be answered during the course of the Employment Land Review.

Issue 5: What is the condition of existing environmental designations and are there any new areas worthy of protection?

The settlement audit only identifies existing environmental designations. A full survey is required to assess the condition of these sites and to identify new areas that are worthy of protection. Natural England monitors all national designations and negotiations are underway with Lancashire County Council to monitor and survey locally designated Biological Heritage Sites. To ensure there is a comprehensive evidence base for environmental factors it may be necessary to commission consultants or carry out joint-working with adjacent local authorities to gather the necessary data.

7. Next Steps

An essential element of the Local Development Framework (LDF) process is public consultation to identify gaps in the evidence base, relevant issues and a range of options to address those issues. The first public consultation is Regulation 25 and the evidence base will be put forward for comment at this stage. It is anticipated that new evidence will be presented to help fill the gaps already identified.

This settlement audit gives a good base from which to start as it sets the context and identifies local characteristics of individual and groups of settlements along with some issues. However, it is not a complete evidence base as there are gaps to be filled that will help to inform future planning policy. There are three types of Planning Policy and Corporate documents that will be prepared during the life time of the LDF process that can help to fill the existing gaps in the evidence base:

- a) Core Strategy and Balancing Housing and the Economy Development Plan Documents
- b) Sustainability Appraisals of the DPD's
- c) Other Corporate Strategies
 - i. Sustainable Community Strategy
 - ii. Sports and Physical Activity Alliance Action Plan
 - iii. Corporate Climate Change Policy
 - iv. Revised Ribble Valley Housing Strategy
 - v. Ribble Valley Corporate Plan

a) Core Strategy and Housing and Economic Development DPD's

The first step in producing the Core Strategy and Balancing Housing and the Economy Development Plan Documents (DPD), is a scoping exercise to identify issues and possible options for addressing those issues. Consultation with the Local Strategic Partnership, voluntary organisations, relevant working groups and partnerships, and the business and local communities is currently underway. All relevant issues arising from those consultation exercises will be combined with those identified during the settlement audit to produce an Issues and Options Document. During that process it is envisaged that more evidence will be put forward to help fill the gaps in the evidence base.

The Issues and Options Document will be subjected to another round of public consultation to ensure all relevant issues and options have been identified. Comments made should help the Local Planning Authority to identify the Preferred Option(s) i.e. the preferred method to how the issues should be addressed using planning policy. For example, the majority of opinion may reject the option of allocating housing sites on Greenfield sites on the edge of settlements in favour of allocating sites within settlements. But until the results of the public consultation are analysed it is unknown what the preferred options will be.

b) Sustainability Appraisals

Every DPD requires a sustainability appraisal (SA), a requirement of the Strategic Environmental Assessment Directive and section 39(2) of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004. These appraisals assess every policy and option against environmental and socio-economic criteria to see what its likely impact will be. The data gathered during the SA process will add to the LDF evidence base.

c) Other Corporate Strategies

There are a number of corporate strategies being revised or prepared at the same time as the LDF. Data gathered during both the LDF process and the preparation of other strategies can feed into each other to ensure consistent and up-to-date data is used. Perhaps the most important strategy in terms of the LDF is the Sustainable Community Strategy, since the LDF is "the spatial expression" of the land-use based actions and objectives contained in this strategy. Consistent data and methodological approaches are essential to both of these documents if both strategies are to be effective and complement each other.

This report and the settlement audit summaries will be published as part of the overall LDF evidence base. The raw data will be updated annually, where practical, at the same time as the LDF Annual Monitoring Report.
